Why study this course? UCLan Film Production offers scope to develop both personal creative expression and professional level skills in a supportive and inclusive environment. Filmmaking (or, in an academic context, film production) is the process of making a film, generally in the sense of films intended for extensive theatrical exhibition. The program offers an intensive, behind-the-scenes education that covers all areas of filmmaking. You will experience every phase of pre-production, production and post-production while learning from industry-active filmmakers with projects such as Beauty and the Beast, Black Panther, The Shape of Water and Star Trek Beyond to their credit. In each year of the course you will take film production modules requiring you to work practically in groups, plus craft modules which develop your individual creative skills and finally theory modules which stimulate your critical thinking and ability to analyse and contextualise film forms., Film Production Management.
